Are you good at organising? Then we are asking for anyone willing to step up to the "oche" and organise us lot on the committee as our chairperson.

It's not a difficult job and we don't bite. You will receive on the job training.
We're quite a nice bunch really.

A call for those unwanted Xmas presents.
You know the ones, from Auntie, or even Hubby, that are put at the back of the cupboard and never seen again. We would welcome them as raffle prizes. Who knows. You might even win it back!

Any garden related items or produce that you would like to sell then bring them along to the sales table.
The club retains 20% of sales.

MARCH MEETING TUESDAY 3rd 7:30 GROSMONT TOWN HALL

We are excited to welcome Adam Alexander seed guardian.

Adam has been on BBC Gardeners World, 2018 episode 22.
For over 30 years Adam has been collecting vegetable seeds from many of the countries he has visited as a documentary film maker.
He is a seed guardian for the Heritage Seed Library, who help preserve rare varieties for future generations.

Adam has saved the precious seeds from more than 20 endangered varieties.

The club will be supplying complimentary wine and nibbles and soft drinks at this meeting.

We will be sending out letters to the public about this meeting. Anyone who brings along one of these and the entrance will be free.

We are doing a drive for new members.

If you will be splitting perennials then please don't forget our plant sale in June. Pot some up to grow on.
All donations gratefully received.

Are you or someone you know interested in having a small allotment free of charge?
Jim Keates, who lives in Llanvihangel Crucorney has a large garden that he is unable to manage.
Please get in touch with Sarah Bell 01981 240256.
